Chapter 21

Practical application of primitive wisdom

If the observations and deductions presented in the foregoing chapters are exerting as controlling an influence on individual and national character as seems to be indicated the problem of the outlook for our modern civilization is changed in many important aspects one of the most urgent changes in our viewpoint should be to look upon the assortment of physical mental and moral distortions as due in considerable part to nutritional disturbances in one or both parents which modify the development of the child rather than to accepted factors in the inheritance the evidence indicates that these parental disturbances of nutritional origin may affect the germ plasm thus modifying the architecture or may prevent the mother from building a complete fetal structure including the brain in other words these data indicate that instead of dealing entirely with hereditary factors we are dealing in part with distortions due to inhibitions of normal hereditary processes this changes the prospects for the offspring of succeeding generations atavism will still have plenty to her credit even if she must give up her claim to distortions of individual characteristics
